

April, 2005 - NetStar-1 Opens Denver, CO Office to Support New Federal Program.

NetStar-1, Inc. (Rockville, MD) has announced that it has opened an office in Denver, CO, where it will support a nationwide engineering support services project that is a sub-contract from Lockheed-Martin Corp. Under this project, NetStar-1 will dispatch support technicians to member offices of the US House of Representatives. The multi-year program supports hundreds of member offices across the United States, and delivers repair and support to member staff.

NetStar-1's Denver office will be managed by Lawrence Trifiletti, who most recently was the Western Region Manager for Wharten Logistics. Prior to his role with Wharten, Lawrence had management responsibilities at TimeBridge Technologies and ACS – where he was responsible for ACS' US House of Representatives support services program.
