

September, 2005 - NetStar-1 is Key Sub-Contractor on US Department of Labor Program Award.

NetStar-1, Inc. (Rockville, MD) is the key sub-contractor to Aquilent, Inc. on the recently-awarded contract at the US Department of Labor's OSDI/OASAM organization. The program centralizes a number of application development efforts, which are designed to streamline the process of migrating legacy applications into a Microsoft .NET framework. Aquilent will have program management responsibility, with NetStar-1 taking on key development positions on multiple tasks. The companies will work together to bring technical and management experts to the OSDI development environment.

NetStar-1's Executive Vice President of Operations, Les Rosenthal, issued the following statement; "We're excited to work with Aquilent on their program at the Department of Labor. Both companies share a common vision of client satisfaction and employee development, and our experience with the customer will help us meet their expectations. In the end, the value of building a team like this is that we can take advantage of our own strengths to deliver a higher level of professional support to the client."
